Tackling Moral Distress In Nurses

Nurse face issues of:

- low staffing
- lack of communication
- low autonomy.

This exasperates an already existing problem of moral distress and burnout among nurses

Nurses lack much free time during their day and need access to quick tools to address these problems

To address this we have designed a mobile app

Can be used in just a minute throughout the day

Monitors mental health in an easily viewable way

Establishes anonymous communication between nurses,

Allows the creation of petitions to bring to management
